CAMPAIGN

I worked with VisitScotland, PromoteShetland and NorthLink Ferries to promote Shetland as a slow adventures destination / wellbeing escape. This covered themes including nature and wildlife, the great outdoors, walking, mindfulness, food & drink, Shetland culture and heritage, and creativity (art & craft, wool, storytelling, folklore and music).

"Ahh those Shetland ponies! I've been wanting to visit Shetland for yearsss, and I'm dying to join Up Helly Aa as well. This post is only making me want to go there like, right this second!"

"I've wanted to visit Shetland for years to visit the places I discovered in my family history journey. It is so beautiful and your post has added even more interest with all the activities."

"I have to say Shetland has not been on my radar, but those ponies have me all heart-eyed! Appreciate the detailed post!"

"Ohhhhh that burger and chips at Frankies looks so good! That is definitely getting added to the list for our upcoming trip to the Shetlands next year! It's a pity we won't be there at the right time for Up Helly Aa 🙁 But alas, it will be an amazing trip nevertheless, of that I am convinced! Thanks for putting together this article, it's been a lot of help for our plans."

"Wow, this looks absolutely amazing and abandoned and I love it! It looks like some forgotten land, not overcrowded by tourists like almost everything else. So beautiful. Scotland has been a dream of mine for a really long time."

"How great that I came to your blog for Norway tips, and you're posting about the Shetlands also! We're visiting there (and the Orkney's!) after a few weeks in Norway/Sweden next year for my partners 40th – 7 weeks on holiday!!"
